Fatima - In Sister Lucia's Own Words II

In his allocution to newly married couples, Pius XII said: "The family has its own radiant sun, the wife. Hear how scripture puts it: The grace of a diligent wife will charm her husband. A holy and honest woman is an inestimable grace. Like the sun rising over the mountains of the Lord, so is the beauty of a good wife in a well-kept house. Yes; the wife and the mother is the radiant sun of the family. She is this sun by her generosity and forgetfulness of self, by her unflinching readiness, by her watchful and prudent delicacy in all matters which can add joy to the lives of her husband and her children. She spreads around her light and warmth. And if you can say that a marriage augurs well when both partners seek the happiness of the other rather than their own, this noble feeling and intention is more especially the quality of the wife, although it concerns both husband and wife. It is born on the very pulse of her mother's heart and its wisdom; that wisdom which, if it receives bitterness, gives only joy; if it receives belittlement, returns only dignity and respect. It is like the sun which brightens the cloudy morning with its dawning ray and its setting gilds the evening shower.

The wife is the radiant sun of the family with the brightness of her glance and the ardor of her word ... by her natural candor, by her simple dignity and by her Christian and decent behavior If you could only know what deep feelings of affection and gratitude such an ideal wife and mother arouses and imprints in the hearts of her husband and children!"

(Alloc of Pius XII, 11 March, 1942)
