The Dignity of the Priesthood - Archbishop Lefebvre

What is the priesthood? Is it not the participation of a man, chosen by God, in the great mystery of our Lord Jesus Christ? And if the priesthood truly is this union of a human creature with the mystery of our Lord Jesus Christ, how could there be any limit to our reflections on the priesthood? For indeed, we could never exhaust all that there is to say of the mysteries of our Lord Jesus Christ - divine mysteries which are entirely beyond our comprehension. That is why, the more we delve into this mystery of the priesthood, the more it seems we would have to say and the farther to search into its most profound realities.

It is our belief that, to know what a priest is, we have only to open the Gospel. We have only to know who is Jesus Christ, the High Priest, the priest par excellence, to know what priests are today.

Our Lord expressed it very simply and very briefly: "As the Father has sent Me, I also send you." (Jn 20:21)

If we just reflect a few moments on the first part of this expression, "As the Father has sent Me," we can see that our Lord is speaking of His eternal mission in the Holy Trinity. The Son is always sent by the Father, because He is engendered by the Father in eternity, and that is what makes Him the Word of God. Likewise, the Holy Ghost is sent by the Father and the Son, and that is what makes Him the Holy Ghost.

This eternal mission of our Lord Jesus Christ continues in His temporal mission, which is the end of all creation. The entire world around us, the marvels of nature, the stars and everything that exists, ourselves, the angels and the elect in heaven: Everything was created so that one day our Lord Jesus Christ might come into the world and sing there the glory of God in the name of all the universe.
